Heating Boilers

Steam and Hot Water

The peculiar fact about the new "Crawford" and "Walker" heating boilers is that they heat where others fail. They are a gilt-edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care. The "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors of these boilers are found in no others.

MUNICIPAL WHEELS

How the Affairs of the City are Run at City Hall

The Charity Department has Delicate and Pathetic Duties to Perform

The care of the poor and needy is one of the important duties of a municipality, a duty enjoined by civilization as well as Christian religion.

It is not so large in its scope in a residential city like Newton, as in manufacturing places and yet the cost to Newton taxpayers is nearly $15,000 a year.

The Charity department in Newton is in charge of an Overseer of the Poor, appointed by the mayor, and confirmed by the aldermen to hold office during good behaviour, like most of our administrative officials. This single headed method of administering the poor department was brought about in 1905, and is a vast improvement over the former system of ward overseers with a secretary and almoner. The new plan concentrates responsibility, prevents imposition and saves expense.

The overseer, is assisted in the office, by one clerk, and at the "City Home" as the almshouse is now called by a warden and a matron.

The public statutes require the overseer to relieve the immediate necessities of all applicants for aid. This has evolved the custom that personal application must be made, the statement of a third party not being sufficient evidence of need, as the granting of such relief, pauperizes the recipient.

In the granting of this relief, which usually takes the form of orders, on nearby tradesmen for fuel and food, the overseer exercises his judgment as to the worthiness of the applicant and the amount of aid required. Rents are not paid by the department under any circumstances.

Settlement

After relief has been granted it is the duty of the overseer to obtain the history of the applicant, in order to determine the legal settlement and by whom the expenses shall be paid. This history covers the name, age, birthplace, condition, children, if any, the places and length of residence in each, and parents' name and residence. A legal settlement may be obtained in several ways, the more important being as follows:

A male, 21 years of age, by five years residence in one place, during which taxes have been paid for 3 years; an adult woman, by 5 years residence in any place—married women follow husband's settlement if any, otherwise their own; legitimate children follow father's settlement, if any, if not, they follow their mother's settlement, if any;—illegitimate children follow mother's settlement at time of birth, if any;—and any person enlisted or assigned as part of the military quota of any city or town during the civil war.

From the history given by the applicant, and which has to be verified by consultation of directories, tax collectors books, and records of births, marriages and deaths, the overseer determines the settlement and if in another city or town in the state, he must notify within three months of the time relief was granted. Such city or town is then allowed 30 days in which to deny the settlement and which if allowed to elapse, fixes the responsibility upon such city or town. If denied, it then becomes the overseer's duty to prove the settlement and appeal to the courts if necessary. This latter course is seldom taken now-a-days, as the formation of the Mass. Relief Officers' Association in 1887 with its monthly meetings has created such an acquaintanceship between the overseers that the differences are usually settled in a friendly manner.

The expense of paupers not chargeable to any city or town in the Commonwealth is borne by the state, which allows but 24 hours for notice of aid granted to such cases.

On receipt of claim of settlement, from another city or town, it is the duty of the overseer to verify the claim by a research of the records heretofore mentioned. If the claim is valid, the city or town is then directed as to the amount of aid to be rendered in the future or is notified that this city "refuses to aid outside of the almshouse." This latter action is rarely taken, however, as it is usually cheaper to grant occasional temporary aid than to bear the entire expense of maintenance at the almshouse. This is also true of cases within the limits of Newton, as the expenditure of $11,675.05 for support of poor out of almshouse in 1907 will prove.

The state's system of charities is very minute, and on receipt of claim, the case is immediately investigated by one of its visitors and the city notified of its determination of what amount of aid shall be granted or whether the applicant is to be removed to the State almshouse, Tewksbury. Neglected and destitute children are also cared for by the state.

The expense of pauper aid can be recovered through the courts from any person in the line of consanguinity, that is, from a father for a son, or from a son for a father. The stigma of pauperism can also be removed if the city or state is reimbursed within 5 years from the date of aid.

The city also renders the last service to the dead by burying paupers and unknown persons in the city lot at the Newton cemetery. This also entails upon the overseer the duty of finding a possible settlement and the sending of bills.

The "City Home"

The city now possesses a city home erected during Mayor Wilson's administration, on Winchester street, Newton Highlands, which compares favorably with any other wooden almshouse in the state.

It has accommodations for 20 males and 20 females and makes a complete and comfortable home for all unfortunates settled in Newton, who are unable to support themselves outside. The building is lighted by electricity, and has a laundry machine, and hospital wards. There are 23 inmates at present, costing about $2.98 per week per capita.

The property comprises about 25 acres of land upon which vegetables and a little fruit are raised.

In this connection, too much praise cannot be given the warden and matron, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Goodman. Their care of the unfortunates in their charge is not a perfunctory duty, but is performed with a warm regard for their comfort and a sincere desire to make their duty as pleasant as possible.

Hospital

No person, except in emergency cases, chargeable to the city can be admitted to the Newton Hospital except on certificate of the city physician.

This officer, who is a vital part of the department, saves the city many dollars in the course of the year in his work among the sick poor.

Insane

Up to 1904 the expense of the insane in the various state institutions was paid by the city in a similar manner as it pays other cities and towns for aid rendered persons, settled in their city. At that time the entire control of the insane was assumed by the state. Our appropriation for insane averaged $9000 a year prior to this change, while our share of the state tax for cost of insane this year is above $30,000. An interesting story can be written on this subject.

Office

The department's headquarters at City Hall are full of interesting records and books. Over 5000 indexed histories, Boston directories since 1840 and the entire edition of Newton directories, cover the walls. The records and histories of course are strictly private, and many an interesting story might be written from these short and simple annals of the poor. The department is seriously uncommenced in its transaction of business by the very small office room assigned to it in the basement floor. The little room is crowded with the two desks and chairs of the overseer and his assistant, and there are but three chairs for visitors or applicants for aid, and absolutely no privacy, any person waiting for an audience, cannot help overhearing the story of those in advance.

While constant efforts are made by the department to place the persons who apply for aid, upon a self supporting basis, there are always chronic cases of pauperism, which are a dead weight upon the strongest efforts.

In some cases, three generations of one family were inmates of the almshouse, and it is evident that hereditarily plays some part in the life dramas of these people.

The agent visits all paupers at least 3 times a year and also acts as the Probation Visitor to pauper prisoners, for the State Board of Charities.

In conclusion I can personally testify to the good work being done by this very necessary department of the city, and desire to call attention to one or two important facts. In the first place the department is not limited by the municipal appropriation and all expenses incurred by the overseer in his statutory duties must be paid by the

A Chain and Its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the per-city. The second fact is that the amount of money recovered by the city for outside settlements depends upon the vigilance and activity of the officers of this department.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist; a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

Congressman Weeks' Firm Occupies New Building Of Its Own

On Thursday, August 6th, the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the banking house of Hornblower & Weeks was celebrated and on that date the firm occupied its new building at the corner of Congress and Water streets.

Many changes have taken place on the Street since 1888, when Henry Hornblower and John W. Weeks, under the new name, undertook the continuation of the well-known business of Hornblower & Page in a small office on State Street, with one clerk, James J. Phelan, as assistant.

The growth of Boston as a financial center is in no manner better expressed than by the changes in the banking district, and so Hornblower and Weeks have in their new location become an important part of that section which is centering around the Federal Building and Post-Office Square.

In order that one may fully appreciate all that is behind this recent move on the part of Hornblower and Weeks, one could do no better than take the time to become somewhat acquainted with the personnel of the firm itself. Success in the banking business depends to a greater extent than in any other line of activity upon the character of the men making up the firm. Bankers play a large part in the grouping of the economic factors necessary to modern progress, and are therefore, if they would be successful in their undertakings, constantly on the watch to see that nothing happens to disturb the confidence of the public. That the success of Hornblower & Weeks is altogether due to the substantial character, personal integrity and progressive policy of the individual members of the firm is a fact well known to anyone acquainted with the history of the Street.

The firm was organized on August 6, 1888. The reason for its formation was the fact that Mr. Page, of the firm of Hornblower & Page, having died in the spring of that year and Mr. Hornblower, the father of the present firm member of the same name being well advanced in years, was desirous of turning the business of the house over to younger men. Therefore his son, who had been a bookkeeper of the old concern, was joined by John W. Weeks in the new firm of Hornblower & Weeks, and beginning where the older concern left off, built up the present prosperous business. The business of the firm was conducted from the start in a modest manner in one room of the old Stock Exchange Building, with Mr. Phelan, now a member of the firm, as clerk. From the start, a high standard of conducting the business was adopted. When the old Exchange building was torn down, the firm moved to the Merchants' Bank building, then on Devonshire Street, where it remained for five years, returning to the new Exchange building in 1894, where it occupied a large suite of offices on the second floor, which later, business increasing, was expanded to include numerous rooms on the third floor.

Henry Hornblower was born in Lawrence, but now resides in Arlington, where he is a director of the First National Bank. He has been a member of the Boston Stock Exchange since 1888 and was elected to a place on the Governing Board in 1901 and is today vice-president of the Exchange. He has always confined his attention closely to the business of the house, engaging very little in outside activities.

The work of John W. Weeks, not only as a banker but as a public-spirited gentleman, has been notable in many ways. He was born in Lancaster, N. H., in 1860. At 17 he was appointed as a cadet at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, graduating in 1881, and remained in the navy until 1883. Mr. Weeks was for two years Land Commissioner of the Florida Southern Railway, occupying that position until he came to Boston as a director and vice-president of the Central Massachusetts Railroad; was later president of the Massachusetts National Bank and is now a director and first vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, the successor of the Massachusetts National. He has also been president of the Newtonville Trust Co. Has served as Mayor of Newton for two terms and at the state election in the fall of 1904 was chosen by a very large majority to succeed the Hon. Samuel Powers as representative of the 12th Massachusetts district in Congress.

During the Spanish War, Mr. Weeks offered his services, which were promptly accepted, and as he was at the head of the Massachusetts Naval Brigade at the time, was appointed to the command of the Second Division of the Auxiliary Navy. He was appointed by Governor Wolcott, as a member of the Military Board of Examiners from 1894 to 1900, and was later appointed by President Cleveland in 1896 as a member of the board of visitors of the United States Naval Academy. Mr. Weeks' career in Congress has been marked by the advocacy of many measures of sound judgment. He has served on the Committee on Banking and Currency, Committee of Agriculture, and Committee on Expenditures in the State Department, being chairman of the last named committee. The work of Mr. Weeks in the direction of sound currency in the recent Congress has received no better tribute than that accorded by Mr. Francis B. Sears at the annual convention of the Massachusetts Bankers' Association this summer, when in a speech Mr. Sears stated that Mr. Weeks was entitled to the gratitude not only of his constituents, but of the whole country, and is worthy of a place with Hugh McCullough, Daniel Manning and Lyman J. Gage, bankers, whose administration of the affairs of the Treasury Department has commanded the confidence of the country.

Mr. Weeks is also a member of the National Monetary Commission which was appointed by Congress under the provisions of the Aldrich-Vreeland Bill and has an important position on the commission, being vice-chairman of the sub-committee which was headed by the late Senator Allison. The work of this sub-committee will be with special relation to the administrative laws of the National Bank Act, and it is the intention of the commission to bring in a bill at the next Congress which will embody the many needed changes in the law with reference to inspection and the general bringing of the law up to date. Mr. Weeks is a member of a number of clubs and several patriotic societies, including the Society of the Cincinnati.

The other members of the firm are James J. Phelan, James H. Wainwright, Edward L. Geary, Andrew S. Woods and John W. Prentiss.

Mr. Phelan is well known to everyone on the Street, having grown up, so to speak, with the firm of which he is now a member. He was admitted in 1899 and has been a member of the Boston Stock Exchange since 1897, and is also vice-president of the Federal Trust Co., director of the Peoples National Bank, trustee of the Union Institution for Savings, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, serving on the Gratuity Fund committee and a director of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Co., serving as chairman of the Finance Committee.

Mr. Wainwright and Mr. Prentiss are the New York members of the firm. Mr. Wainwright is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Wainwright became a member of the firm in 1903 when Mr. Geary was admitted. Mr. Weeks was a member of the New York Stock Exchange from 1891 to 1903, when he transferred his seat to Mr. Wainwright.

Andrew S. Wood and John W. Prentiss were admitted to the firm on Jan. 1, 1906.

The building itself is a modern, six-story, stone, structure, with steel frame and light Bedford limestone facing. The outside has been treated with almost severe simplicity, the object of the architect being to attract attention not by an abundance of decoration, but rather by the absence of it.

On examination the building presents a structure of straight, well proportioned lines and spaces, which depend for their artistic effect on nothing else but symmetry, with only the cornice top of the sixth story bearing anything like extensive ornamentation.

The design has most successfully supplied a large amount of natural light, which is available on three sides, being quite a distinctive feature in a modern office building.

The main entrance at 60 Congress Street is through a high doorway, furnished with tall, old English oak doors. Through the vestibule, past the elevators, along a short corridor and one is in the public space of the main banking room, which covers the entire first floor of the building. This room is as large if not larger than any other banking room in Boston. The decorative scheme is another expression of simple, dignified taste, the effect being brought out in the method, application and design of the permanent fixtures of the room itself, making a harmonious appearance.

The walls are wainscoted in an African mahogany and tinted to the ceiling in French grey. The ceiling is paneled in low-relief with straight moldings. The mahogany counter rests on a base of marble and is a beautiful piece of cabinet work, as is the rest of the furniture of the room. The room is in fact without any of the usual embellishment, at the same time not even the dark grille which encloses the clerical department is sufficient to destroy the general sense of harmony and good taste which has been accorded in the treatment of the room.

The front of the room is given over to the desks of the firm members, which rest upon a grayish-green cork carpet of a most agreeable hue. From this part of the room an elevator leads to the directors' or consulting room in the basement. The remaining open space of the first floor is utilized by the bond and note departments, the desks and chairs, electric light fixtures, telephones and pneumatic tubes, all designed to match the rest of the room. Beyond, behind the gratings, come the departments of the cashier and stock clerk, the departments for comparison, delivery and bookkeeping, each of which is fitted with straight lined mahogany furniture and steel fittings.

In the rear of the main banking room is a room unique in banking houses of this city, it being a room set aside for the use of customers for the purpose of holding trustees, corporation directors' meetings, etc. The room is well located and handsomely fitted. A soft, green, Turkish carpet harmonizes with the rich mahogany chairs and writing tables, while the metal fixtures give brilliancy to the room.

The principal features of the second story are the board-room and customers' room connecting. It is in this part of the building that the excellent natural light comes into full play. The board-room with its long quotation board, twenty-five feet in length, the longest with one exception in Boston, and the longest given over exclusively to general stock quotations, is something which stock operators will appreciate. The board itself is a fine piece of work, with its special lighting apparatus, and surmounting electrically operated clock, which ticks the time direct from Washington.

The room is replete with conveniences for the use of the customers of the house and includes tiers of specially designed chairs, locker apartments, telephone booths, telegraph news ticker, news services, pneumatic tubes and in fact everything conducive to the comfort and intelligence of those interested in markets.

Next down the corridor comes the wire room, which is separated from the customers' room by the glass screen. In this room are found the telegraph instruments and telephones which connect with the stock exchanges in Boston and New York, as well as the out-of-town offices of Hornblower & Weeks in New York, Chicago, Salt Lake City, Pittsburg, Hartford, New Haven, Providence and Newport. This wire room is of vital importance, as is the case in all well conducted brokerage and banking houses, containing as it does the nerve centers of the entire establishment.

Then comes the room of the telephone central station, from which connection is not only made with every desk in the use of the concern, but carries the outside regular and long distance service necessary to the business.

Directly beneath the main room, on the ground floor, is a directors' room, reached by a private elevator and by a private staircase from the main office. The directors' room is reserved for weekly conferences of the firm members and heads of departments. Easily reached from this room, also, is a private bath room, and a dining room and electric kitchenette.

Probably the most interesting portion of the basement is the gigantic power room which opens into a subterranean turret. Powerful motors, with the shining brass accoutrements, way down in the bowels of the earth, seemingly, constitute what is probably one of the largest and best equipped engine rooms in Boston. It furnishes power to both No. 50 and No. 60 Congress Street, and is in most interesting contrast to the finish and veneer of the floors above.

On the opposite side of the basement is the locker room, shower bath and toilets for employees, a lunch room and several private offices. Also, and this most essentially, there is a large vault room where are located the safety boxes and vaults for the keeping of securities and moneys. It is admirably equipped, rigorously suggestive of strength and security.

Book lifts connect with the book-keeping and cashier departments, and beyond it all is a mailing department, where will be handled the immense correspondence which features a modern banking house.

From the basement, any floor in the building is reached by powerful elevators, of the plunger type, which make their impression at once for ease and safety of travel. One artistically bent, however, might use the semi-spiral staircase, with its home like finish, to reach the second floor, where the same general scheme is carried out on a smaller scale. There is marble wainscoting and mahogany finish, but here especially is emphasized what you notice only incidentally in the wealth of noticeable things on the ground floor—namely, the extensive means adopted for ventilation. Just as every room in the building is admirably lighted, so is it admirably ventilated. Inserted in the walls throughout the building are fresh air stacks which remove the foul and supply fresh air. By both direct and indirect radiation the temperature of the rooms is kept at a most comfortable point. Every room in the upper stories shows the effect of this preparation.

The upper stories of the building are given over to tenants. Banking rooms and private offices are fitted up, so far as the bare finish is concerned, to be prototypes of the rooms which the firm itself occupies. Here as below, lighting and ventilating facilities feature the rooms; only even more so, for above the second floor the broad daylight reigns supreme. Elevator connections and service are complete in every detail, and everything connected with the offices above the second floor but serves to top off splendidly the admirable features of the entire building.

Taking the entire mechanism as it is installed in the new building of Hornblower & Weeks, from the standpoint of its adaptability for the banking and brokerage business it can be safely said that there is nothing more complete in Boston.

The members of the firm express the keenest appreciation of the work of Mr. Henry N. Sweet in getting together the properties of the new building and the development and completion of the enterprise. The almost countless details were entirely in his hands, and through his careful and able co-operation with those actually engaged in the work of construction the entire work was accomplished with a minimum of confusion and to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

The contract for the building was executed by Geo. B. H. Macomber & Co. from plans drawn by Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul. The work was commenced on August 21, 1907, and the contract called for the completion of the structure in a short time. The work was finished on time, and the owners and tenants unite in expressing their entire satisfaction as to the manner in which the many details have been carried out.—Banker and Tradesman.

BRIDE AND GROOM SERENADED

A wedding which was the outcome of an advertisement inserted in a matrimonial paper by the groom was that of Thomas Callahan, an aged West Newton resident, and Miss Mary Tully, which took place Sunday in Lawrence.

When Mr. Callahan and his bride arrived home that evening there was a crowd of several hundred men and boys on hand to give them a royal welcome. The crowd serenaded the couple. So strenuous was this part of the celebration that the noise gave rise to a rumor that there was a riot in progress. Police Capt. Ryan was attracted to the place by the noise. He sent word to police headquarters and a detail of patrolmen was sent to disperse the crowd.

Mr. Callahan has lived in West Newton many years and is well known there. His home is on River street. He is 67 years old. His bride is 30.

—During Mr. W. G. Hambleton's absence on vacation, Mr. H. Richter Austin, formerly of London and Berlin is officiating at the organ at Grace church. Mr. Austin intends residing permanently in Newtonville.

—A peculiar accident occurred early Saturday morning on Channing street. John Boyle of Cambridge, driver of a milk wagon owned by the C. Brigham company, fell about 4.45 o'clock when he jumped from the wagon with several jars of milk in his hand. The glass jars broke and he was considerably hurt. He was attended by Dr. T. M. Gallagher.

—Preliminary plans for the basketball season at the Y. M. C. A. were made in a meeting of candidates held last Friday evening in the association rooms at the call of Physical Director William MacPherson. Last season Newton had a strong team. It is believed that a team equally as good can be developed this year from the material in sight.

MUNICIPAL WHEELS

The Diversified Interests of the Newton Free Library

One of the most highly prized departments of our city life is the Newton Free Library. And yet, I firmly believe that not one person in ten is fully aware of all its manifold advantages. For our library is considerably more than a depository for books. It reaches the lover of art with its portfolios of engravings; the musician with its music, the traveller with views of English and Italian scenery, the student with its fine books of reference, as well the general reader.

The present library is the outgrowth of a literary association formed at Newton Corner, in 1848, and which conceived the free library idea in 1865. The present site was purchased in 1866 and the corner stone of the building was laid by the late Hon. J. Wiley Edmonds, in 1868. The money for its construction and equipment was raised by popular subscription, over $65,000 being received, and it was formally opened on June 17, 1870. The library was incorporated in 1871 and on the inauguration of the city government in 1874, steps were taken to transfer the property to the city. This was consummated in 1876, when the keys were delivered to the city authorities on March 18.

The library is managed by a board of five trustees appointed by the Mayor, and which annually organizes by the choice of a president, a secretary, a librarian, a superintendent and appoints sub-committees on library and building. Assistant librarians and a janitor are also appointed by the trustees. The board holds monthly meetings except during July and August.

The librarian is the executive officer of the trustees and has the general care of the library, books, and assistants at the main library and branches, of which the yearly cost of maintenance is about $22,500. It is needless to say that such a position requires executive as well as literary ability, and Newton has always been fortunate in finding the right person to fill the position. The first librarian was Miss James, who served for 17 years, and was followed temporarily by the Rev. Bradford K. Pierce, whose six months in office ended on Jan. 1st 1888. Miss Elizabeth P. Thurston, the present librarian was his successor and brought to the position an experience of seven years in the library as an assistant. Her work is marked by a thoroughness and conscientiousness which is greatly appreciated by all lovers of books.

The library now contains 70,000 books with a circulation in the homes of over 200,000 volumes, and about 2,000 new books are added yearly. 41 newspapers and 115 magazines are also taken.

New books are usually selected by the librarian, who regularly visits the various book stores twice each month, and from which new books are sent on approval. These books are read or examined by the librarian or by competent persons selected by her, and if approved, are purchased for the library. Several copies of popular books in fiction are usually purchased, and there is a growing tendency towards more copies and less variety. The purchase of the more expensive books requires the approval of the trustees.

The library can be roughly classified, numerically as follows: Fiction, 12,000; essays and periodicals, 16,000; history, 19,000; arts and sciences, 16,000 and reference 7,000. About 65 per cent. of the total circulation is prose fiction.

Every resident of the city is entitled to two cards, on presentation of an application, endorsed by some responsible citizen.

One card can be used for any kind of books and the other for all books except fiction. School teachers, both public and private, are entitled to 15 cards for books for pupils and 3 for their own use. The latter favor is also granted to teachers who reside, but do not teach in Newton. The president or chairman of clubs may have 15 cards for books for club use, excepting, however, new and popular works. Clergymen are entitled to 5 additional cards, and in every way the library assists and encourages the circulation of its wealth of literature. Over 11,000 names have been registered since the inauguration of the present card system in 1905.

It is also interesting to learn that portfolios, each containing 15 photographs of paintings and sculpture of which there are 4,000 in the library, birds, views of English, Italian scenery, etc., can also be taken out on cards in the same way as books. This is also true of neat tin boxes, containing a stereoscope and set of views, and 402 volumes and portfolios of music are also available for general circulation. One of the latest innovations in the library is a series of lantern slides for stereopticon use. 1,500 of these can be drawn out on cards, in a similar manner as books. Magazines are also circulated singly after current use in the reading room and until bound into volumes.

A complete card catalogue, containing about 150,000 cards is constantly kept up to date, and in position for popular use. Catalogues and bulletins are also published and kept for sale. Weekly bulletins are also inserted in the Newton papers, and every means taken to keep the public informed of the accessions to the library.

Old books which are too delapidated for binding or general use were formerly burned, but the library has recently contributed them to the contagious wards of the Newton hospital, to seamen's homes and vessels and has even caused them to be sent to far away Alaska. Books are of course rebound and mended wherever possible and used as long as decency will allow. Papers from the reading room are sold for old paper and the magazines are bound and placed on the library shelves for circulation.

The library maintains reading and reference rooms and branches at West Newton, Auburndale, Newton Centre, Upper Falls, Nonantum, Newtonville and Newton Highlands, each in charge of one assistant. That at West Newton is the oldest and was formerly the property of the West Newton Athenaeum. These branches are open daily except Sundays and holidays for seven hours, although that at the Upper Falls is open but 5 hours.

The branch libraries are supplied at frequent intervals with deposits of books, so that residents of other villages can have books within their reach as well as the card service from the main library. About 1,000 books are kept at the Newton Centre branch and some 4,300 books at all the branches.

Agencies, where books can be left and called for, are maintained at Lower Falls, Waban, Chestnut Hill and Oak Hill. Books are exchanged daily with the branches and agencies at Newtonville, West Newton, Auburndale, Newton Centre, Newton Highlands and Upper Falls; tri-weekly with Lower Falls and Waban, twice a week with Nonantum and once a week with Chestnut Hill and Oak Hill.

Fines of two cents a day are imposed for retaining books beyond the limit fixed on the cover, and have a salutary effect. The receipts from this source and from the sale of catalogues and bulletins are utilized for current expenses, any balance at the end of the year being used for the purchase of books.

The main library and reading rooms are open daily except Sundays and holidays from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., and until 9 p. m. on Saturdays and the reading rooms are open on Sunday afternoon for six months of each year.

An admirable feature of the library is the Young People's room. Every Saturday morning an hour is spent either in reading with the children or in explaining how to use the library and its reference works. Pictures are displayed frequently, when some anniversary of historic importance arrives or some current event can be illustrated.

The demand for the latest fiction reached such proportions two years ago that the trustees inaugurated a duplicate pay collection. A number of extra copies of the latest fiction were purchased and circulated at the rate of two cents a day. The receipts are used to purchase the newer books as published and the plan has proved very successful, over $1700 having been received since it was established. Persons who do not care to wait their turn for the regular library copies, can usually obtain the book from the duplicate pay collection, and do not mind the small fee it entails.

The great need of the library at present is more shelf room. The shelf room obtained by the enlargement of the library in 1887 at a cost of $25,000 has been exhausted and a second tier of stacks is necessary. Books are now piled around upon the floor and tables all over the building.

The library receives the income of several funds, donated by its friends. The late John S. Farlow gave $5,000, the income to be used for the purchase of books for the reference library. The income of the Jewett Art Fund of $10,000 is used to purchase photographs, music and other works of art. The several hundred dollars each year from the Read Fund provide new books of a general character, and the income of the $1,000 of the Alden Spence Fund is used for books on manufacturing and mechanical trades. The will of the late Mary Shannon also contained a bequest of $5,000, which has not yet been received.

In conclusion it should be said frankly that Newton ought to be proud of its library. It stands as a monument to the public spirit of those gentlemen of a past generation, who were far sighted enough to provide for all time to come for the dissemination of literature to all who desire to avail themselves of its stores of knowledge.

POLICE NOTES

Miss Emma L. Eastman of Waltham appeared in the police court Saturday morning on a continued case charging larceny of money from the J. S. Kennedy company, Newton Upper Falls, May 14, by whom she had been employed as bookkeeper. In a previous hearing Miss Eastman had declared that she did not know just how much she had appropriated to her own uses, but a member of the firm asserted that the amount was considerable. A fine of $25 was imposed.

"He saw no brass buttons on the coat of the constable who served the paper and he did not realize the seriousness of the order," declared counsel for Hugh F. Drew in the police court Saturday morning, in explaining why his client had failed to recognize two orders issued by the court regarding the payment of certain money. Drew was before the court on a charge of contempt as a result of his failure to recognize the orders, upon complaint of Edward Lacroix of Nonantum. The money concerned was due on a bill which had been thrashed out in a previous civil action. After hearing the case Judge Kennedy ordered Drew released under bond.

FRANCIS TIFFANY

[From the Springfield Republican.]

He was a scholar and philosophic thinker, and among his fugitive writings were essays which charmed by their style no less than informed by their thought. A pungent but quiet humor was his and a felicitous grace of expression; while the content of his utterance was moulded in ethical and intellectual strength. One of the most admirable expositions of the spiritual bearing of the evolution theory was made by Mr. Tiffany in less than a newspaper page; and his exegetical and critical power was shown in his essay on the fourth gospel. He was indeed one of the leaders of Unitarian faith from negation to affirmation, and his notes of travel and observation were graphic, original and very attractive. What he was in his literary and religious expression he was also in his personal contact with men. He was pastor here in the years that led up to the civil war and almost to the end of that momentous period, and stood with the pronounced antislavery men, exercising no small influence over public opinion. Those who knew the Rev. Mr. Tiffany will always prize his memory as that of a worthy servant of humanity, and he would have asked no better title to remembrance.

AFRICAN DODGER INJURED

Eugene Burrill, a 53-year old colored man, has been under treatment since Tuesday morning in the Relief station of the Boston City Hospital for a fractured skull and other injuries which he sustained the previous evening while acting as an "African dodger" at the carnival of Rev. P. H. Callanan at Lower Falls.

Burrill had a chance to pick up a little extra money by working as a dodger at the picnic and he embraced the opportunity, being promised $5 for the day's work. While he was dodging a straight ball, it is said, someone threw in another ball from one side with great force. It struck Burrill fair and square and after the ball had caromed off his head he was "all in." He went to Boston, after having some difficulty, it is stated, in collecting his day's pay, and in the morning was found in a pitiful condition in a barber shop on South Russell street.

BASE BALL

The Newton Independents defeated the Garden City team, 6 to 5, on Cabot park Monday afternoon. The winners made eight hits and four errors, while the losing team made seven hits and six errors. Sullivan and Lyons were the battery for the Independents, and Dorsey and O'Brien for the Garden City team.

Walnut A. C. of Newton Centre defeated St. Mary's team of Newton Upper Falls, 16 to 11, at Newton Upper Falls, Monday, and as a result the Walnut A. C. claims the championship of Newton. McCourt, the former Newton high pitcher, played an excellent game for the winners. Early in the contest Daly, pitcher for St. Mary's, was severely injured by being struck in the eye by a ball. He had the injury dressed and pluckily played out the game. The Walnut A. C. team now has a record of 13 straight wins.

The value of time was never more appreciated by the American people than at present. You can save time by asking your steamfitter to buy a "WINCHESTER" hot water or steam heater for your dwelling, if you contemplate using the more modern forms of heating.

Sometimes when sickness is in the family and a physician has been called in and a prescription written, you have noticed the name of some particular druggist printed on the paper on which the doctor writes the prescription.

This does not mean that you are compelled to take your prescription to the druggist whose name appears on the paper.

It is recognized the world over that a patient has the privilege of taking the prescription to any drug store that he prefers.

The prescription department in our store is always watched over by a registered pharmacist; a doctor's prescriptions are always filled exactly according to the way he intended they should be filled.

A Chain and Its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

NEW POLITICAL CLUB

A number of young men living in Newtonville have formed the Newton Draper-Frothingham club for the purpose of advancing the candidacy of Draper and Frothingham in this city. O. D. Purdy of Lowell avenue is chairman of the club, which is the first political club formed in this city this season.

The club announces that it will hold a number of rallies and smoke talks, which will be addressed by men prominent in the politics of the city and state. Associated with Mr. Purdy in forming the club were D. L. Proctor, H. D. Billings, L. S. Brown and George Curtis.

TRAMPS THOUGHT RESPONSIBLE

Tramps are believed to have accidentally started a fire which broke out in the large stable owned by Edward M. Skinner, Jr., at 175 Brookline street, Newton Centre, about 10 Saturday night. It was the most serious fire on the south side of the city this summer.

Occupants of the dwelling nearby saw flames issuing from the upper part of the stable and sent in an alarm from box 912. There were a number of horses in the stable, but these were taken out without being injured. The flames destroyed about 40 tons of hay, many farming implements and other equipment and badly damaged the upper part of the structure. The loss was estimated at about $4000, and was partly covered by insurance.

LAWN PARTY AT ST. MARY'S

A well attended lawn party was held Monday afternoon and evening by parishioners of St. Mary's church at Newton Upper Falls on the grounds opposite the parish buildings. The affair was under direction of a large committee headed by Rev. Timothy J. Danahy, the pastor. Numerous decorated booths were presided over by young women and were well patronized. During the evening there was dancing, and a musical entertainment was provided by professional talent. The affair was pronounced a success, and it was stated that the proceeds will amount to more than $1000. The money will be used to carry on the parish work.

If our good intentions were all realized the devil would have to open bids for a new paving contract.

them free gratis to the steamer's wharf if asked to do so.

In view of the short time before us let's get busy, "Lest we forget." Two or three neighbors might, acting together, fill a barrel, the needs are for warm woolen clothing, cotton or linen goods are of no use in that climate good reading matter, especially for the young children, discarded toys, in fact anything that the good judgment of a careful good father or mother may have suggested to their minds Dr. Grenfell is very wise in his efforts to benefit his people. He believes it is the best way to "help the folk help themselves," so instead of giving the things we send outright, he has a nominal price placed upon them, such as they are able to pay either in money or work. Another way we can help Dr. Grenfell is by joining the N. E. Grenfell association. This costs $2.00 a year. With the membership is given the magazine "Among the Deep Sea Fishers," which is wholly devoted to Dr. Grenfell's work. It is intensely interesting and it keeps us in an up to date touch with the work. For membership apply in person or by letter to Miss E. E. White, 14 Beacon street, Boston.

"A Perilous Voyage"

Many of the people have read in the "Boston Transcript" and "Congregationalist," the thrilling account of Dr. Grenfell's experience on the ice in April last. For the benefit of some of the Graphic readers who may not have read the account I will give it here.

One morning messengers arrived at the hospital from a place sixty miles away. It was a very urgent call for the doctor's services. A young man upon whom the doctor had performed an operation had not improved as was expected and he was in danger from blood poisoning. The doctor now feared that an amputation would be necessary. He hurriedly loaded his Komatik with instruments, medicines, extra clothing, food, and started, driving his best dog-team. He reached a small settlement at nightfall. The next morning he was off bright and early. To save distance he chose to go across a small bay instead of taking the route of the shore line. The ice looked all right ahead, except that it was very rough. All went well for awhile, when suddenly he found himself on a mass of "slits" ice. This is a mass of fragments which had broken off from the firm ice. The doctor could push his whip handle through it. Retreat was impossible, the only thing to do was to gain a footing on what is called a "pan," which is a piece of firm ice varying in size. Almost immediately, himself, dogs, and Komatik were overboard. The danger now was that the sledge would draw dogs down and they be drowned. He seized his knife and cut the traces and he and the dogs struggled to get to a pan and succeeded in getting upon one about the size of a dining room table. They were soon in the water again, but finally got on a "pan" about the size of a small room, not over twenty feet square. The doctor succeeded in reaching the pan by clinging to the dogs' harness. Dr. Grenfell was now facing a terrible situation, night was coming on, he had had nothing to eat or drink since early morning, the weather was about ten degrees below zero, he was wet to skin. Something must be done, or he would freeze to death during the night. The doctor now killed three of the dogs with his knife. He says, "It seemed like murder to do it," but it was his life against theirs. In all probability it was the only thing that saved his life for he flayed them and wrapped himself in the warm hides. He then, having fed the dogs, with the bodies of their mates, piled the carcasses up as a wind shield and cuddling down among the dogs went to sleep. He woke and thought that daylight was breaking, but it proved to be the moon, and then he knew that it was about twelve o'clock. When he awoke he realized that he must in some way signal for relief. It was almost a forlorn hope but it was the only thing that he could do, so he took some of the legs of the dogs he had slain and lashed them together with oakum from the harnesses, and bound his shirt to this pole and commenced to wave it. It was heavy and cumbersome, and only two or three feet above his head, but he kept waving it at intervals in the seemingly vain hope that it would be seen, all the while straining his eyes to try and detect a sign of life on shore or on the water. Once he thought he saw a flash such as ours would make. It proved to be the sun shining on a piece of clear ice. Again he saw a flash and soon another and soon he saw a boat. His signal had been seen and brave, skillful men were on their way to rescue him. Slowly they came through the slt ice, but before long they halted him, saying, "stay where you are, we will save you." Soon they were alongside and Dr. Grenfell was rescued. These men are slow of speech and are given to silence, but when engaged in rescue work they seem to forget their own peril and go to the limit in their endeavors to save life. Soon they were landed and the doctor had a bowl of tea hot and other refreshments. His hands and feet were somewhat frost bitten. I think he was in bed a couple of days, but was soon about again in normal condition.

Is it strange that such a man is loved? Let us show him that we appreciate his self-sacrifice by holding up his hands, by giving of our abundance. Since writing the foregoing, a friend has told me that she saw recently, in some paper, an account of Dr. Grenfell's experience on the ice, in which it said that this experience had aged Dr. Grenfell greatly, even to the extent that his hair is now snow white. How he must have suffered in mind and body to cause such a change Dr. Grenfell needs help. He should have those upon whom the details of the work rest, the management of the Mission is all that should come on him.

THEATRES

Kelth's Theatre.—Of all the vaudeville artists who entered the legitimate field, none made a greater success than was always the same Kendall that Vinegar Buyer and his other plays, he was always the same eKndall that for years had delighted Kelth audiences, and now his return to vaudeville for the first time in eight years, at Kelth's Theatre, is an event of more than ordinary interest. Kendall is without question the greatest of all monogolists and one of the most effective story tellers. His fun is continuous. On the same bill with him, held over for another week, will be "The Love Waltz," the Viennese opera with its splendid music, unique waltzes, and its now famous kiss, which last week proved one of the strongest attractions ever secured for vaudeville. During the coming season Mr. Kelth will present the greatest line of head-line acts ever given in vaudeville, special arrangements having been made during the summer to bring these along in quick succession. The entire bill will be in keeping with the head-line features, among the most notable being Selma Braatz, the female juggler who will be seen here for the first time; Mullen and Correll, the acrobatic comedians, J. Warren Keane, Brown and Hodges, and the Kelth special show.

Boston Theatre.—The engagement of Denman Thompson at the Boston Theatre, is proving one of the most important ever given in the Hub, for many reasons, and the attendance is breaking all records. There is no doubt that this is largely due to the fact that Mr. Thompson, with whom this great play will always be identified, and who is now seventy-five years of age, is appearing. In fact for a number of years, although "The Old Homestead," enjoys the same popularity everywhere, Mr. Thompson has not appeared as Joshua Whitcomb, except in the large cities, New York, Boston and Chicago. His present appearance was decided upon through arrangements made with Mr. B. F. Kelth, and the remarkable powers of the man has been the subject of general comment all week. In fact there never has been a time when the veteran actor entered into the spirit of the part so thoroughly, giving a more enjoyable performance. The production itself is on a larger scale than has ever been given before, much of the scenery being put on with greater attention to detail, made possible by the great stage of the Boston Theatre, which is probably the largest and best adapted for a production of this magnitude, than any other in the country. Seats have been on sale for the entire four week's engagement, and the demand has been unprecedented.

Colonial Theatre.—"Commencement Days" at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, is an entertainment in every sense of the word. The play itself, with its simple story charmingly told, is well acted throughout and the good impression which it made at the very start, has been enhanced by repetition. The cast which John Cort has given "Commencement Days" is, in every instance, highly capable. Miss Katharine Florence and Miss Lolita Robertson possibly carry the honors but there none of their associates who are more than worthy of the tasks assigned them. Miss Blanchard, Miss Bert, Miss Weston, Miss Dale and Miss Smith all contribute conspicuously good work, as do the Messrs. Reigel, Stepping, Lindo and Anderson. The production is one of the most picturesque seen here in some time. Matinees are given Wednesday and Saturday.

It's strange how many people are ready to come to our assistance when we don't need them.

Diplomacy is sometimes merely the art of seeming to be interested in other people's troubles.

The fellow who claims that he never has a show may never have the price of admission.

NEW ENGLAND FOOD FAIR

Frank C. Bostock, known on two continents as "The Animal King", has announced his determination to unite two of his greatest trained wild animal arenas, for a limited time. The two shows which are to be thus merged are the famous Frank C. Bostock "Jungle" at Earl's Court, London, England, and the Frank C. Bostock Trained Wild Animal Arena at Dreamland, Coney Island.

This consolidation, which has created quite a stir in the animal show world, has been accomplished for the single purpose of giving patrons of the 2d Annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition, which opens at Mechanics Building, Boston, from Oct. 5 to 31, the greatest free attraction ever conceived. The consolidation was brought about by Messrs. C. H. Green and E. J. Rowe, managers of the New England Food Fair at Mechanics Building, who in order that they might secure the Frank C. Bostock Consolidated Trained Wild Animal Arena and "Jungle" have paid Mr. Bostock the sum of $25,000—the largest amount ever paid for a single free attraction for an engagement of four weeks.

A cablegram from the City of Mexico, received by the managers of the New England Food Fair a few days ago announced the appointment of Engineer Albino R. Nuncio as the Representative of Mexico at the New England Exposition. A letter from the same source conveys the information that the members of the Banda De Policia are immensely excited over the prospect of their trip to the United States to attend the New England Food Fair of Boston. None of them have ever been outside of Mexico and the preparations which they are making would seem to indicate that they fear they may never come back. Those who have heard it, do not hesitate to declare that the Banda De Policia is by all odds the greatest in the world; but as it has never played outside the city of Mexico, it is comparatively little known elsewhere.

GLOUCESTER-WARDS EVERY MORNING

The renewed chance this season of going to beautiful and picturesque Jape Ann by the commodious steamers of the Gloucester line, starting from the north side of Central wharf, foot of State street elevated stairway, daily and Sunday mornings, is being taken by many hundreds of people who never took the trip before. The fine, newly furnished steel steamer Cape Ann is a model of convenience and safety in passenger service. There is good music aboard, and enough time is given in the quaint old fishing port of Gloucester to see many of the unusual sights of the place. Starting time Sundays is at 10.15, but on week days it is at 10 o'clock sharp.

MUNICIPAL WHEELS

The Police Department, its Men and Methods

To protect the City of Newton from lawlessness and to maintain decency and order, costs the taxpayers about $80,000, and requires a police force consisting of a chief, captain, two lieutenants, three sergeants, a chief inspector, who ranks as a lieutenant, an inspector who ranks as a sergeant, a police matron and 57 patrolmen. The department maintains four police stations, good, bad and indifferent, one stable, a patrol wagon and pump, an ambulance, a prisoner's van, chief's wagon, an automobile and two horses.

The chief of police is appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the aldermen, and receives a salary of $2,000 per year and an additional salary of $100 as keeper of the lockup. He is responsible for the entire department financially and otherwise, determines all appointments, promotions and discharges on the force subject to approval of the mayor and makes a weekly and annual report to that official. He must see that proceedings are instituted for all violations of law and ordinances and that they are duly tried. The chief attends to the correspondence of the department including hundreds of anonymous letters which usually reach the waste basket and acts upon all complaints against police officers.

The police officer represents the city to the general public to a far greater extent than any other city official. He comes in daily contact with all classes and conditions of people and must possess intelligence, coolness, firmness, integrity and courtesy. The police force of Newton stands these tests remarkably well and is a credit to the city.

Admission to the force is obtained through civil service examination, covering a knowledge of arithmetic, spelling, composition and the duties of an officer. The appointment is made from the certified list (three names being certified for one vacancy) by the chief and approved by the mayor. The first appointment is for a probationary period of six months as a reserve patrolman at $2.25 per day.

The salary increases to $2.50 per day for the first year, $2.75 per day for the second year and $3.00 per day for the third and subsequent years.

Police officers are entitled to wear a blue stripe on the sleeve for each period of five years' service. The city provides the revolver, club and handcuffs carried by each patrolman, but the expense of two uniforms a year must be met by the officer personally. Patrolmen work eight hours a day for seven days in the week, with fourteen days' vacation during the year determined by lot. In addition a statute passed this year, gives each officer one day off in every thirty, in addition to the regular vacation. The men are however, subject to call at any time and are not allowed to leave the city even when off duty without permission from headquarters.

The Department

The department is divided into three platoons. The first goes on duty at 8 A. M. and remains until 6 P. M. the second platoon at 6 P. M. and remains until 1 A. M., while the third platoon goes on at 1 A. M. and remains until 8 A. M. The second and third platoons alternate every other night, making a long day of 24 hours off duty, with the next day a "short" day of 10 hours. A patrolman going on street duty at 6 P. M. reports for house duty when he comes off the street at 1 A. M. and sleeps until 8 A. M. subject to call. A patrolman going on street duty at 1 A. M. will report for house duty at 6 P. M. and sleep till 1 A. M. If he desires, subject to call. The day platoon is in charge of the captain, in the station, and a sergeant on the street. The night platoons are in charge of lieutenants with sergeants on the street.

Each patrolman covers an assigned beat, making hourly duty calls to headquarters from the various street boxes and acting as the eyes and ears of the state and city for tramps, beggars, thieves, drunks, gamblers, liquor sellers, disturbers of the peace, and violators of the law or ordinances. Lost children, fires and vacant houses come within the scope of duty of a police officer, who may be termed the general utility man of the city. The duties of both regular and reserve men are the same although the regular men receive the most desirable assignments.

As a general rule no one can be arrested without a warrant from a magistrate but an officer can arrest with out a warrant for violations of the city ordinances or misdemeanors committed in his presence. Arrests for past offences where the crime amounted to a felony (the punishment for which is state's prison or death) can also be made without a warrant. After arrest the offender is taken to the nearest signal box, the wagon call sounded and on its arrival the prisoner is turned over to the wagon man and the patrolman resumes his beat. On arrival at the station the prisoner is carefully booked and searched and if charged with a felony a photograph is also taken and added to the 500 pictures now in the rogue's gallery at headquarters. The finger print system is also used by the department. Prisoners are provided with substantial meals of sandwiches, coffee or tea cake and pie at a contract price of 25 cents for each meal while awaiting trial.

The following morning the arresting officer makes a formal complaint against the prisoner before the clerk of the police court, and he is then brought before the judge. In court the officer presents such evidence and witnesses to substantiate his charge as may be necessary. The duty of the police department ends here, the county officers executing the decision of the court. In cases of breaking and entering, the patrolman makes an exhaustive report to headquarters covering the condition of the premises when discovered, how entrance was effected and the value and description of the stolen property. The chief and inspector then take the case, trace the stolen articles, if possible, notify other police departments, watch suspected persons and employ all the tricks of the trade to run down the guilty parties. Fake robberies are occasionally unearthed, and usually occur when an alleged victim is bluffing off some importunate creditors.

All fires and evidence relating thereto are reported to the state fire marshal and all accident claims against the city are investigated, witnesses interviewed and a report made to the city solicitor. An elaborate system of house inspection is maintained during the summer, every vacant house, placed in charge of the department by the owner being inspected day and night and a written report made to headquarters.

The police signal system of which mention has been made is invaluable to the department. 42 street boxes are in constant use for duty, wagon and telephone calls and it brings men nearer together, and in cases of emergency, accident or fires the wagon goes at once. The system assures attention to duty by the patrolman and protects them from unjust charges of neglect of duty.

It establishes communication between headquarters and the various stations or patrolmen on their beats.

Duty calls of which there were 166,155 during 1907 are received silently at headquarters and recorded on a tape. Telephone and wagon calls ring a bell to attract the attention of the houseman. Wagon calls are instantly transmitted to the patrol stable where the operator can drop the harnesses upon the horses by touching an electric button, and be ready to start as soon as the driver reaches his seat. In case headquarters desires to communicate with a certain patrolman, a switch is set for the box he will next pull on a duty call, and when he opens the box for that purpose, a tapper notifies him to use the telephone call. 11,747 telephone calls and 548 wagon calls were recorded last year.

The patrol stable is located on Cherry street, West Newton, in the rear of City Hall, to which it is a constant fire menace. A day and night man is in attendance ready to answer all wagon or ambulance calls, accompanied by the houseman from headquarters.

But little attempt has been made to describe the detective work of the department, the bulk of which falls upon the shoulders of the inspectors who work in plain clothes. These officers' duties are so varied that it is almost impossible to do justice to their work in an article of this kind. That they are an indispensable part of the force goes without saying and their work is thoroughly appreciated.

A police matron has charge of all female prisoners of which there were 125 in 1907.

During the winter season the entire force is regularly drilled at the High school drill shed by one of the lieutenants and their usual fine appearance on Memorial Day can be attributed to this work.

One feature should be borne in mind when considering the efficiency of the department, and that is the inadequacy of the present number of patrolmen to cover the twenty and more square miles of territory embraced within the limits of the City of Newton, and we are far behind other communities in the number of patrolmen to the area covered.

With this exception, however, which is not a fault of the department, the city is carefully protected by a corps of men who are far above the average of the ordinary policeman.

ESPERANTO CONGRESS

The coming of the fifth International Esperanto Congress to the United States means a good deal to us. It means that we shall be visited by a considerable number of representative men from all the important countries of the world, who will regard us not only as Esperantists, but as a nation. Among these will be official representatives of a number of foreign governments. All of these men will go home with impressions of our country and reports, official or otherwise.

Preparations for a successful congress mean a vast deal of detail labor during the next ten months. To facilitate this labor the national Esperanto association has been subdivided into ten sections, one of which comprises New England. In the work to be done the New England division will need the moral support of as many as may be interested directly, or indirectly. For this purpose there is being prepared as complete as possible a directory of all Esperantists in our division. To quote from the Constitution of the Esperanto Association of North America: "Any individual studying or being interested in Esperanto and any organization, club, society or association interested in Esperanto or devoting a part or the whole of its time to the study or use of the same shall be eligible to membership in this association."

Will all to whom the above applies send name and address to the secretary of this division, thereby not blinding themselves in any way to become members of the association.

It is hoped to make our division one of the leaders, but to do this we must have hearty and prompt cooperation.

C. H. FESSENDEN,
Secretary N. E. Division, E. A. of N. A., Newton Centre, Mass.

BATH HOUSE CLOSED

The city bath house at Crystal Lake Newton Centre, was closed Saturday afternoon after its first season. It was opened under direction of the health board after many residents of Newton Centre had petitioned Mayor Hutchinson for a public bath house in Newton Centre. There were 29,000 baths taken by patrons, an average of 85 a day.

MASONIC BOOK PLATES

We are in receipt of the September number of the New England Craftsman, being No. 2 of the Book Plate Edition, containing the article by A. Winthrop Pope of Newton, Mass., entitled "Remarks on some Masonic Book Plates in America and their owners." It contains much that is interesting to collectors of these little works of Art, as well as to members of the Fraternity.

Mr. Pope starts right in on the subject, beginning with two extremely beautiful plates by Dr. Samuel W. French, a distinguished Free Mason and eminent physician of Milwaukee, and says that when he designed his first book-plate he had no intention of making it a Masonic Plate; Mr. Pope has decided that it is not only a Masonic book plate but it is a very good one; his description of it is interesting. Dr. French, who is a Masonic student and is never so happy as when trying to solve some Masonic symbol, has a second book plate entitled "The Book Lover's Dream" which was designed under difficulties, as his draftsman was many hundred miles away and the entire business was done by mail. It is a very elaborate book plate, and an ornament to any collection.

S. Stacker Williams, 33 degree, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ohio in 1885-'87, who was a great Masonic student, and for many years an intelligent collector of literature concerning Free masonry, had a book plate not generally known. Mr. Pope had an impression in his collection but not wishing to risk spoiling it in having the reproduction made, he wrote to the officers of the Grand Lodge of Ohio for a duplicate; but they did not know of the plate, and referred him to members of the family who were also ignorant of its existence. The plate is nicely described and Mr. Pope ends by saying that "Brother Williams died before he had an opportunity to make any use of it."

A very clever description is given of the curious book plate of Dr. Leroy Mortimer Taylor, 33 degree, who had gathered together a rare collection of curios, engravings, etchings, draperies, etc. His library comprised about 3000 volumes, carefully selected which cost about $15,000; when he died it was given to the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite, Southern Jurisdiction, and bears his name.

Two of the three plates of the Iowa Masonic Library are illustrated; the other with a portrait of Dr. Parvin, is carefully described. In one of the plates Mr. Pope detects an error in the Latin Motto, which has "Sine" for "Sine". The Paul Revere plate is of interest because it was engraved by the patriot; it is not Masonic, but as he was Grand Master in 1795-1797 it is included in the article by request. Mr. Pope was fortunate in being able to borrow the original copper plate of the Great-grandson of Paul Revere for the purpose of illustration. It really is a curious plate, and is well described, but we think that Paul Revere knew little of heraldry; perhaps a drawing of the plate was given to him and he copied it; if he were now living he would reverse the engraving making the design as it shows on the back when held to the light. (That would have been the proper way to engrave the arms).

The description of the Iowa Masonic Library as well as all the biographical sketches are rendered in the same pleasing manner as in the August number, and are worthy of more than a passing notice.

In the line of Book Plate Literature there are several volumes:—Professor Zella Allen Dixon of the University of Chicago has written an excellent work "Concerning Book Plates"; Charles Dexter Allen's "American Book Plates"; "Jay Chambers and his Book Plates"; "Book Plates of Today"; and "A booklet devoted to the Book Plates of Ellisha Brown Bird, being a collection printed in photogravure." (He is of Boston). There are also "Some children's Book Plates". "The Book Plate Booklet"; "Women Designers of Book Plates"; "A Guide to the Study of Book Plates", etc. But Mr. Pope's essay is the first in this country on Masonic plates. It will be concluded in the October number which will contain The Busby and Collins plates, the extremely rare plate of General Washington Johnston of Vincennes, Indiana, those of Albert Pike and the Supreme Council S. J. the Masonic Library Association of San Francisco, and others. It is hoped that a Boston Lodge plate will be included, which is believed to be the first American Lodge to adopt the custom.

Friendship is a branch of self-love.

BURDETT COLLEGE

Has Largest Entering Class in Its History

Burdett college opened its doors yesterday to the largest entering class in its history. Passersby on Boylston street saw a stream of scholars flowing into this well-known institution in which so many thousands of young men and women have been trained for successful business careers. The seating capacity of the five new rooms which have recently been added to the immense plant will soon be tested to its utmost, and if necessary more floor space will be secured in order to avoid having a waiting list in the near future. Last year's enrollment of more than 1600 pupils will probably be greatly exceeded during the session of 1908-09. Boston is to be congratulated in having among its educational institutions the leading business school in America, and the business heads at Burdett are richly deserving of credit for their determination to keep the standard of the college sufficiently high to meet the exacting requirements in the offices of leading business firms and banking houses.—From Boston Globe.

"AUNT SALLY" HIT BY AUTO

Several automobilists and the motor man of an electric car received sudden shocks at different times last Friday evening when they nearly ran over what they first believed was a woman on the Washington street hill at Newton Lower Falls. The mysterious "woman" was a dummy, toggled out in brilliant garments and wearing a merry widow hat of generous proportions. The dummy was operated by boys by means of a clothesline attached to its waist.

An electric car was bowling down the hill shortly after 8, when the motor man saw a "woman" standing not far from a white pole. He was preparing to stop the car when suddenly the woman toppled over and fell directly across the tracks. The car was brought to a stop with such suddenness that the passengers wondered what had occurred. The motor man and several passengers started to the assistance of the unfortunate woman, when she was seen to slide off the tracks, across the sidewalk and disappear in a field.

The strange figure next made its appearance a quarter of an hour afterward. It stood in the middle of the street and fell over when an automobile sped down the hill. The chauffeur brought the machine up short at the side of the roadway, but when he had alighted the "woman" had disappeared.

Still later the figure fell over in the path of a touring car. It was struck and knocked a rod. The emergency brakes were applied and several men and women jumped out and ran toward the prostrate form.

"She is still alive!" cried one of the young women automobilists as the figure moved along a foot or two. The automobilists were about to tenderly lift up the prostrate body when it unexpectedly swung about and disappeared feet first into the darkness.

It was learned that the "woman" narrowly escaped being run over so many times and was struck by a touring car going down hill was the life size dummy known as "Aunt Sally," which had been one of the attractions in a carnival held here Labor day. With a clay pipe between her teeth "Aunt Sally" had been battered and bruised with sticks thrown at her by patrons of the carnival in effort to break the pipe and thus win a cigar. The night the carnival was closed, it is stated, "Aunt Sally" disappeared mysteriously. The lady had not been seen since until she appeared on Washington street to frighten motor men and automobilists.

TWO ALARM FIRE

A fire which threatened dwellings on several streets broke out late Monday afternoon in a large, 2-story wooden building owned by the C. F. Eddy Co., off Border street, West Newton, and destroyed the structure, considerable valuable machinery and a large number of cords of cut wood, entailing a loss estimated at about $4000. The alarms were sounded from box 35, the first one at 4:25.

Employees discovered the roof near the Boston & Albany tracks burning briskly. Within a few minutes the flames worked down into the structure and spread to a large amount of kindling wood stored in one part of the building. The place soon became a roaring furnace, and Chief Randlett sent in a second alarm, which brought a large amount of apparatus.

Corded wood outside the building caught fire. The sparks spread to the dwelling house at 76 Border street, occupied by Mrs. Della Rouse and three Italian families; to a dwelling at 86

Border street, occupied by Joseph Pugliese; to the house at 30 Crescent street, a quarter of a mile away, occupied by Nicholas Sanders, and to a trestle supporting a spur track from the Boston & Albany main line to the saw mill.

The occupants of the four family dwelling at 76 Border street was driven out and all their furniture was removed. The hard work of the firemen, however, saved all three dwellings from being more than slightly damaged.

One section of the trestle was destroyed and the rails were twisted into curious shape. An engine, boiler and steam saw sheltered in one part of the mill were destroyed, and this building was burned flat. At one time it was feared that the buildings throughout the immediate vicinity were doomed. The firemen say that had there been a strong breeze the street would have been swept. It was the first two alarm fire here in many months. The all out signal was sounded at 7:30.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS

"Where did he strike you?" "Near the schoolhouse, your honor." This conversation took place between Associate Judge Bacon and Henry E. Brown in the police court Monday morning, when the latter appeared as complainant against Frank Manchino charged with assault and battery. Brown and Manchino are farm hands. While they were pitching corn into a wagon in Waban, it was alleged, Manchino threw an ear at Brown and struck him on the nose. A witness testified that he saw the affair. "Were you working at the time?" the court asked. "Well, I worked four days last week," was the reply. Manchino was convicted and the case placed on file. They went back to pitching corn.

Fred Rooney, a young man living on Lexington street, Auburndale, was convicted in the police court Monday of having committed assault and battery upon Fred Heald of Newton Upper Falls, August 2, in the latter place. He was fined $15 and given until September 21 to pay. It was alleged that Rooney and Heald had a fist fight in a field in Newton Upper Falls as a result of trouble which had occurred at Norumbega Park the previous evening regarding a young woman. The police stopped the fight, which was being watched by a large crowd of Auburndale and Newton Upper Falls boys and men. Heald was caught at the time. He was brought into court and fined.

Weakened by hunger and the exertion of tramping many miles, Peter Malvin, aged 73, who said he had worked his way here from Buffalo came into police headquarters Monday night and asked for lodging. The old man said he was on his way to Boston in search of work, having lost employment as a dock laborer in Buffalo two weeks ago. He said he rode as far as Rochester on a box car and was then thrown off. He hesitated about jumping any more freight, he said, because he couldn't trust his falling sight. During the civil war he worked for two years, he told the police, in the Springfield arsenal. He declared that he had tasted no food in 24 hours, with the exception of a few peanuts which he had found this morning. A number of officers took up a collection and bought a supper for him.

Sergt. Thomas C. Clay, who was injured last week by being struck by a pole while riding on the running board of an electric car on Washington street, returned to his duties in the police department Monday morning.

Lieut. Robert S. Harrison Monday morning began his annual two weeks' vacation, part of which he will spend in Worcester.

NEW ENGLAND FOOD FAIR

The claim made by the management of the 2d Annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which opens at Mechanics Building, Boston, Oct. 5 and continues to the 31st, that $100,000 will be spent for free attractions can easily be believed when one considers the list of free features already announced. And that there are still more to come. In their endeavor to outdo their brilliant record of last year, the management of the 2d annual New England Food Fair has been almost prodigal in providing free attractions.

The State of Texas will have a big exhibit, entirely free, of course, on the main floor of Grand Hall. The purpose of this exhibit will be to show the immense resources and wonderful products of the Lone Star state and will be worth coming miles to see.

The State of California is sending a great motion picture exhibit showing, in this highly entertaining manner, sections of the beautiful country and luxuriant vegetation of the Pacific state.

In Paul Revere Hall there will be colored motion pictures of "Pal Revere's Mid-Night Ride" shown for the first time in America. This will also be free.

BEWARE OF TRANSFERS.

Persons who misuse transfer checks of the Boston Elevated Railway Company are likely to find themselves in trouble. A few days ago a wealthy resident of Brookline was fined $5 for attempting to use a transfer check issued to him at Village square contrary to the conditions under which it was issued. There have been other recent convictions for transfer ticket frauds in several of the cities in which the Boston Elevated operates.

It is stated that more than one-half of the passengers carried by the Elevated transfer at least once in the course of their trips, and such extensive transfer privileges afford great opportunities for fraud and imposition. The company has shown its determination to prosecute persons who attempt to use transfer checks in violation of the statutes and regulations governing their use, and no discrimination is made because of the social standing or influence of offenders.

LITERARY NOTES

"There's no place like home," which the Rev. Jay T. Stocking, minister of the Central Congregational church, Newtonville, Mass., calls "The Dearest Spot on Earth." Under this title he has published through H. M. Caldwell Company, New York and Boston, three essays: The Making of a Home, The Nursery of Men, and The Religion of the Fireside. Believing that the home is the foundation of our national and social life, his aim is to inspire all to an appreciation of its beauty and sanctity and to make all more responsive to its sublime ideals. The book is full of wise words for parents and children. It is a worthy and wholesome, helpful and uplifting. The wholeness, the lack of submission to authority, the social and political evils which we are all deploring today would speedily disappear if the teachings of this little book were more closely followed. The publishers have produced it in sober and dignified style, as befits the subject. It is printed on hand-made, deckle-edged paper, and is bound in hodgeen gray cartridge paper with cloth back.

FROTHINGHAM WINS

Elects 22 Delegates To 2 For Luce
Good Vote By Republicans, but Light By Democrats

The contest for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor was responsible for the interest and consequent vote cast last Tuesday at the State Primary election. 1157 votes were cast by Republicans, 54 by Democrats and the Independence League has one vote to its credit in Ward 7.

The fight entered in the contest for the state delegations in every ward but 4 and 6, between friends of Hon. Louis A. Frothingham and of Robert Luce. The rival candidates had held a number of rallies in the city during the past three weeks and each claimed a majority of the delegates to be elected. In ward 4 the failure of the Luce party to file a list of delegates in time to have it printed on the official ballot was offset by the use of stickers and the apparently unopposed Frothingham delegation won out by only 20 votes. In ward 6, where the Luce delegation had been filed in time but only to be ruled out on technical grounds, no fight was made at the polls.

Frothingham delegates were elected in every ward, except in ward one, by ample margins as a rule, and the Luce ticket in ward one was elected by only five votes. The remaining delegations were unopposed. Representatives William F. Garcelon and Elias B. Bishop were renominated and Alderman Howard P. Converse was selected as the third representative to succeed Mr. John F. Lothrop.

The Democrats cast a light vote as there was no contest whatever in their ranks. With no names on the ballot for candidates for representatives, there was the usual scattering votes, John Barry, Robert Casey, Tim O'Connell, Wm. G. Burke and A. T. Sayash received one vote each and Michael J. Murphy, Daniel O'Connell and William Burke received 2 votes each.

The Independence League Party cast one vote in ward 7.

These delegates were elected, the figure after each set, except for state indicating the average number of ballots received by each.

FUNERAL OF MR. DOUTHARD.

The funeral of Mr. Thomas Douthard of 80 Langley road, Newton Centre, was held at his late residence last Sunday afternoon at 2.30, Rev. Edward M. Noyes officiating. Mr. Douthard was 81 years old and was a native of Belfast, Ireland. The deceased was a member of this community for many years, being a devout attendant at the First church, of which he was a sexton, until ill health compelled him to suspend laborious duties. Mr. Douthard is survived by three daughters and three sons. One of the daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth McCreary, resides in this village. The interment was in Newton cemetery.

BASEBALL.

Walnut A. C. of Newton Centre won the final game in the series against St. Mary's last Saturday afternoon by 9 runs to their opponents 4. This victory gives Walnut A. C. the championship of Newton in baseball. Both teams had new men on, but the playing was practically one sided because Larner, pitcher for the winners was in good form and the fielding was all their way also. The vanquished ones left the field crestfallen, but satisfied with the decision.

MR. ALLEN DEAD.

Mr. Chauncey B. Allen, a well known resident of Newton died last Sunday at his home on Breamore road. Mr. Allen has been in poor health for the past few years and suffered a great deal during the past few months. He was a native of Pawtucket, R. I. and forty years of age. Mr. Allen has resided in Newton nearly his whole life, and was a graduate of the Newton schools. He was an expert accountant connected with the firm of Harvey S. Chase Co. of Boston, and has been connected with important accounting work in various parts of the country and was closely associated with the growth of uniform municipal accounting from the original instalment in Newton in 1900 through its development in New England and the West.

He was a member and at one time, clerk of the Eliot church. He was also a member of the Economic Club of Boston, the Boston City Club, treasurer of the Newton Republican Club.

Ward 7; fellow of the Incorporated Public Accountants of Massachusetts and a member of the American Association of Public Accountants.

Mr. Allen was married in 1905 to Miss Elizabeth Curry by whom he is survived.

Funeral services were held at his residence, on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. H. Grant Person of the Eliot church officiated. The pallbearers included three brothers and Messrs. Ralph L. Flanders, Loren D. Towle and Harvey S. Chase. Burial was at Mount Auburn.

BURGLARS ABOUT.

A break in the dwelling of Mrs. Alma W. Tower, 18 Myrtle avenue, Auburndale, in which considerable loot was secured, was reported to the police Monday. The break occurred some time since last week, and was discovered when Mrs. Tower's son made a brief visit to the house. The solid silverware had been stored when the family went to Conway, N.

H., early in the summer, but the burglars made away with considerable plated ware and other valuables. Entrance was made by forcing a piazza window.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

A taxicab party, consisting of two men and three smartly dressed women, who made a sight-seeing trip at Auburndale at 3 o'clock Monday morning, created such a disturbance in trying to gain admission to the former Pigeon Hill House that they found themselves locked up in police headquarters three quarters of an hour later.

As a result of a hearing in the police court Monday forenoon two of the young women were fined. The third young woman and the two men were discharged. The excursionists appeared to regard the entire proceeding as a huge joke, laughing continually, even while the court was hearing the testimony.

The party gave their names as Dora Daley, 28, of 9 Dudley street; Mabel Gulon, 33, 63 Dartmouth street; Ida Williams, 24, 400 Columbus avenue; James C. Newton, 38, 208 West Newton street, and George W. Brown, 21, 40 Isabella street, all of Boston. Each entered a plea of not guilty.

The Daley woman was fined $10 on the charge of disturbance, while for drunkenness another fine of $5 was imposed. The Gulon woman was fined $5 for disturbance. The others, charged with disturbance, were found not guilty.

MAN HURT.

Jumping from a heavy wagon on which he had been riding, Michael Kelly, 43, married, living at 12 Gardner street, was seriously injured Monday night by being run over. He was removed to the Newton hospital in a serious condition. The accident occurred on Pearl street, opposite Thornton, Kelly landed on a round stone. It is believed, which caused him to roll under the wagon. He was cut about the head and shoulders and bled profusely. The wagon was owned by T. Stuart & Son Co., contractors here.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

"Tip" O'Neill, the crack halfback of the Newton high school football team last season, who was also a member of the baseball team, sent word to the school athletic association this week that he will return to the school this autumn. For some time there had been some doubt of O'Neill being with the team this year, as he had contemplated entering Boston College. He will have a condition in one study, it is stated, to make up before he will be able to play in any of the regular games.

NEW MUSIC FOR OUR READERS.

"Sandy and I" is the title of a new Scotch song with words and music by Mrs. Mary E. Ireland, the well-known author, who has a wide-known acquaintance all over this country. The Scotch dialect is well used. It is a song that we are sure will be well received.

The words have the Scotch sincerity and simplicity. A very striking picture of a Scotch lad and lassie adorns the cover. This Scotch song and chorus is written for medium voice and breathes forth the love of a young Scotch couple who came up to the threshold of domestic life with the blessings of Sandy's mother. The regular retail price of this great song is 50 cents per copy. By special arrangements with the publishers, our readers will receive a copy postpaid by sending 25 cents in postage stamps to The Globe Music Co., No. 1155 Broadway, New York.

NIELD-DEWOLF.

The marriage of Miss Alice E. DeWolf, of 223 Park street, Newton, a former resident of Duxbury, and Dr. William A. Nield of New Bedford took place at the Central Congregational Church on Monday, the twenty-first of September. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth H. DeWolf, and the best man was Mr. David W. Baker of New Bedford. Only the relatives and a few friends were present. After a two-weeks trip Dr. and Mrs. Nield will make their home in New Bedford.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

The quick work of Arthur E. Wood in stopping an automobile which he was operating after the machine had knocked down Catherine Mahoney, the 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. P. J. Mahoney of 30 Ripley street, Newton Centre, Sunday afternoon, doubtless saved the child from being fatally injured.

With her sister Agnes, who is two years her senior, Catherine started across Centre street at the Beacon-street crossing in Newton Centre directly in front of the approaching automobile. The front wheel knocked her over and she sustained numerous cuts and bruises. She was under the automobile.

Although the machine was proceeding at a fair speed, Mr. Wood stopped it before the rear wheel touched the child. She was taken to the office of a local doctor, and was later removed to the Newton hospital. The automobile, which contained several persons, was numbered 098D and was operated by Arthur E. Wood of 192 West Canton street, Boston. A number of pedestrians who saw the accident declared that the girl's narrow escape was due to the presence of mind of Mr. Wood.

INCENDIARY FIRES.

Two incendiary fires occurred within 13 hours in the house of Thomas Scully at 3 North street, Newton Centre, last Saturday and Sunday.

The first fire broke out in the dwelling at 8.45 Saturday night, for which there was an alarm from box 263. The blaze started under a flight of stairs on the first floor. When the department arrived it had gained a good headway, but the loss was kept down to about $200. The members of the family left the dwelling, a 2-story frame structure, and went to the home of friends for the night. A second fire broke out in the same dwelling at 3.25 Sunday morning, and box 263 was again sounded. This blaze apparently started, it is stated, near where the first one was set. It did damage amounting to about $100 more.

Both fires were pronounced of incendiary origin, and as a result Fire Chief Randlett, Police Chief Mitchell and Chief Inspector Fletcher made a careful investigation.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Republican senatorial convention will be held at South Framingham on Wednesday, Sept. 30, at 3.30 P. M. The Republican county convention will be held at Lowell on Thursday, Oct. 1, at 10.30 A. M.

The Boston Transcript commenting on the governorship says that the Democratic "party is reluctant to take Mr. Vahey, whose willingness to serve has been his only important qualification." Possibly the Senator thinks that "every knock is a boost."

What puzzles a small boy is how his mother can stand it to wear such a hot slipper.
